A few years ago, while I was on holiday in the Himalayas, I stopped for the night in a small village. It was a very poor place and there was no proper hotel. But the owner of a restaurant offered me a bed for the night.

"Please wait here," he said pointing to a table just outside his restaurant, "While I prepare your room."

It was a beautiful evening. The sun was setting behind the dark mountains and the starts were just beginning to come out. The villagers were lighting fires for their evening meals and there was a pleasant smell of wood smoke in the air.

Then, I noticed that I was no longer alone. Someone was sitting at the table beside me. It was an old man with a long white beard. His clothes were dirty and almost rags.

"What do you want?" I asked "Let me tell your fortune, sir." he said. I laughed. I don't believe in that sort of things" I told him. All the same, the old man took hold my hand. "I can tell your future" he said. I tried to make my hand away, but the old man held on to it, gently but very firmly.

"Very well" I said. "But first of all tell me about my past. If you can tell me about that, I'll let you to tell me about the future too." The old man looked hard at my hand for a longtime without speaking. I smiled to myself. "He can't do it." I thought.

Then, in a low soft voice, the old man began to tell me about my childhood. He talked about my family and the towns that I use to live in. He went on to tell me about my life in different parts of the world.

Evey word he said was true! "Stop!" I said. "How can you know about all theses things?" "I know about the past and the present." The old man replied. "And I also know about the future, are you ready to hear about your future too?"

I hesitated. Did I really want to know? Just at the movement, the owner of the restaurant came out. "Your room is ready now, sir," He said. "Oh... I thought I heard voices. Were you talking to someone?"

I looked round. The old man was not there. "Yes" I said. I described the old man. "Oh! Him!" the owner of the restaurant said. "That is the village lunatic! He thinks the he can tell people's fortunes! I hope he wasn't a nuisance!"
